Why sponsor CCPC 2013?

In 2011 EuropaColon held its 1st Colorectal Cancer Patient Conference alongside of the World Congress on Gastrointestinal Cancer in Barcelona. It was a successful collaboration with over 130 delegates representing 20 countries globally and over 30 NGOs, patient groups and medical groups present. In 2013, we will hold our second conference to sustain EC's efforts to combat CRC in Europe to engage, educate, inform and support CRC patients alongside all relevant stakeholders.

The objective of CCPC 2013 is to maintain the platform for co-operation and exchange of CRC information, sharing successful strategies for CRC prevention and control whilst motivating key parties and addressing the general public on all matters relating to CRC in Member States. Sponsorship of the second European Colorectal Cancer Patients' Conference (CCPC) will offer a unique opportunity to be involved in this highly acknowledged European CRC Patient consultation meeting.

The conference programme has been developed in consultation with patient and medical experts to appeal to all stakeholders: patients, their families and care givers but also doctors, clinicians, politicians and the media.

EuropaColon will be advertising and marketing the conference to our 21 Affiliates and Associates groups across Europe. In addition, our sister organization Global Colon Cancer Alliance will be promoting the conference on an international level.

The opportunity to take part in such an ethical and transparent consultation would ensure benefits for both sponsor and the CRC community as a whole.

Among the benefits which sponsorship will offer are:

- Demonstrate commitment to society and corporate responsibility – strengthening credentials as a socially responsible brand
- Provide a unique insight into the experiences and current needs of CRC patients
- A chance to network with stakeholders and key opinion leaders across Europe and globally
- Allow a transparent and ethical dialogue with various stakeholders
- Impacting the development of the market for CRC screening and diagnostic treatments, products and services
